

I believe that in order to greatly enhance the democratic process in this country, there has to be a major break up of the media ownership of TV and radio ownership. There is a noticable shortage of different opinions presented to the American public through our media. Not only do I believe that the amount of ownership of broadcast venues that any one company or individual should be greatly reduced, but I believe that in order to hold a licence to broadcast a commercial interest should be required to substantially contribute financially to public alternative media sources, to ensure a balance of voices.
